MESSAGE FROM CAROL WHITE

In our industry we have a saying, “if you’ve seen one chamber, you’ve seen one chamber.” That is so very true, as having served in this industry for almost 20 years, and having served on the Wisconsin Chamber of Commerce Executives (WCCE) board of directors, and currently serving on the Mid-America Chamber Executives (MACE) board of directors, I can say I have seen all types of Chambers.

This is why we try to remember to start every conversation with someone interested in the Brookfield chamber by asking “Have you been a part of another chamber in the past?” And if the answer is yes, to delve in with a few more questions – can you share your experience, what did you like, what would have liked to have been done differently. If this is their first experience with a Chamber, we know we have a blank canvas to work with AND we know that we need to be our very best to represent this industry.

At the Brookfield Chamber we often talk about our “culture,” and I think that’s because to us, it isn’t just about joining or investing in the Chamber and your business, it’s about the people, and the relationships we form. If we aren’t willing to step out and meet new people and develop new relationships and nurture our existing relationships, we miss out on so many things – things we will never even know we missed out on.

This culture theme is in our tag line – “your business connection,” how can we help connect you to others – other business owners, potential strategic partners, new clients, services you need for your business or for you personally. Please remember us the next time you have a problem to solve (others have been there, others are experiencing the same issues), are looking for an introduction, or just want to talk business. We want to be that trusted resource for you and your business.

2023 GOLF OUTING

JUNE 14, 2023

“ I have been a part of the GBCC golf outing for 20 years. While my game has not gotten much better, this event is better than any other outing I have done. It is so well organized and focused on networking with the best and most fun people! It's like a family reunion but with folks that you actually want to see and spend time with.

I can't wait to see all my cousins again this year!

-Spence Mather/Waukesha State Bank

LEADERSHIP ACADEMY

Our Leadership Academy is for those seeking to be better leaders themselves or to grow their team members into stronger leaders. This course fosters innovative thinking and creative problem-solving. Furthermore, the Academy promotes greater freedom in the selection of themes, and embraces individual differences and perspectives of the participants. A unique characteristic of this Leadership Academy is in its ability to challenge the status quo and inspire participants to make significant contributions as leaders.

The Leadership Academy is offered twice per year - a winter/spring session beginning in January and a fall session beginning in September.

“

The Leadership Academy is an amazing program. As a financial service executive for 30 years, I have participated in numerous training and development initiatives. None of them had the impact of this training. Joe Weitzer built content that is easily and quickly operationalized. Joe is an excellent instructor who leads authentically and passionately. The Leadership Academy is a transformational program. - Marty Griffin: Executive at Griffin Executive Group

NEW LOGO & WEBSITE

GREATER
COMMERCE

In 2023, it was time for a new look! Our previous logo served us well for 65 years, and it was now time for a change.

We thought hard as to what we wanted our logo to portray. Within our organization, we refer to ourselves as GBCC, so it made sense to capture that. Then, colors that portrayed energy, optimism, success, trust, and stability. Logos today are the name of the organization. Because our investor base is not just Brookfield, we felt it important to place focus on business - the chamber of commerce. With that, the new logo was born. We hope you enjoy it as much as we do.

With our new logo came a new website. Our redesign focuses on creativity. It embraces white space while projecting our new and vibrant colors. Consisting of the same content, our new website has allowed us to share more statistical information in an engaging way.

In 2023, we said, "Out with the old and in with the new." We are proud to say this work was completed in-house and launched the weekend of December 1st, 2023.
